*课程简介 （Description） （中文 300-500 字）	This course provides English majors with an opportunity to practice their discussion and conversational skills with a native English speaker. Students are expected to participate by sharing experiences and opinions, making comments, and singing once each week as a class (songs are chosen by the students). While the lessons follow topics in a textbook, the lessons are informal enough to allow students to speak voluntarily at any time. The purpose of the class is to make students familiar with ‘real world English’ in preparation for any future work, study, or visits abroad, or simply for personal practice/enjoyment. Grades will be earned through attendance, presentations, (each student will give a couple of short presentations), and a short oral assessment.
